The mean barometer, as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means, are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain-gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

Letter to Comptroller-General, No. 1947, dated 19th March 1872 (Account Proceedings, March 1872, Nos. 38 to 41).

RESOLUTION.—In the letter to the Comptroller-General, dated 19th March 1872, it was stated that the cost of stationery supplied to officers and departments that are paid from Provincial and Local Funds need not be recovered from those funds to credit of Imperial Revenue. These instructions were not sufficiently guarded, inasmuch as it was not intended to supply stationery free of cost to the Local Funds Boards created subsequent to 1870-71. The Governor-General in Council is accordingly pleased to declare, in modification of the instructions of 1872, that stationery shall be supplied free to Provincial Services, and to those Local Funds only which, under the practice prevailing in 1870-71, were supplied without charge from the district indents.

ORDERED that the foregoing Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments, to the Comptroller-General, and the several Accountants-General and Deputy Accountants-General in independent charge.

All sums actually received and paid in court must be accounted for in full, day by day, to the treasury, as enjoined below in paragraphs 9 and 14. All sums remaining on hand when the court or office is closed for the day must be remitted to the treasury the same day (or, if that is not possible, on the following morning). 4. The cash-book* (form No. 1) will exhibit in several totals all sums received and paid in actual cash day by day under paragraph 1. It will exclude those cases of civil suit deposits where the court grants a chalan or payment order authorising the holder to pay or receive the cash at the treasury, and not at the court. The deposits received and paid in cash at the court will be entered in the cash-book in daily totals from the columns "amount received in court" and "amount paid in court" in the registers of chalans and payment orders (forms Nos. 2 and 3). The cash-book will also show as a total, in a separate head, cash received from the treasury as a permanent advance or in reimbursement of sums expended from a permanent advance, and in the same way diet-money and other peremptory cash transactions prior to decree, the amounts being posted from the subsidiary cash-book prescribed in paragraph 36. In this cash-book should also be entered such petty remittances as may be made by one court to another by means of postage stamps. These should be noted at the foot of and after the totals for the cash entries. The remittance to the treasury for the day will also appear in it, separately noted as such. The cash-book will be closed and balanced each day, and signed daily by the presiding officer after careful examination.

* Being restricted to transactions in actual cash, the general cash-book will have nothing to do with receipts in the form of stamps (embossed paper) or of court fees (adhesive labels). These are required either to be effaced or punched by the court under a separate set of rules before any action is to be taken on them by the court. Therefore, assuming that the judicial officers receive petitions in person in open court as they are directed to do, and not through the office; (2) that they enforce the rules as to prompt effacement, then the court-fee labels cease to be negotiable before they leave the court-room. Each court is responsible for carrying out these two precautions, both of them indispensable for preventing fraud with court-fee labels. The case is different with postage stamps, where these, supplemented by extra stamps for discount, are employed between different courts as a means of remittance for petty sums. Other than petty sums are to be remitted by money order.

5. When a person desires to pay money into any court, or when money is paid in by any officer of the court, he will be furnished free of cost with two forms of chalan (form No. 11). In each of these he will enter in vernacular or English the particulars required from him. He will then affix on the chalan by adhesive label the requisite court-fee stamp, and present it in open court before the judicial officer. In passing these chalans the main point to be kept in view is that they contain full and precise description of the deposit, so as to supply the ministerial officers of the court with the means of readily tracing the transactions on their registers when the person for whom the money is destined comes to apply for it. On the duplicate being approved, and if necessary corrected by the judicial officer, the contents will be transcribed by the judicial officer's accountant into a register of chalans issued (form No. 2). Each chalan will be distinguished by a separate index number in consecutive series. After entry in this register the duplicate chalan will be returned to the party tendering the money as his authority to pay the same into the treasury.

6. The following are the heads of account in the treasury books under which the money received and paid by judicial officers, or under their orders, will be classified. The particular heading to which each item belongs will be indicated by the judicial officer in his chalan or payment order:—

Classification of chalan for money received.

1. Civil suit deposits, including rent deposits.
2. Fines (criminal).
3. Sheriffs' fees.
4. Stamp penalties and duty therewith; refunds.
5. Intestate or unclaimed property.
6. Miscellaneous receipts (not deposits), i.e., civil forfeitures, forfeitures of earnest-money by defaulting bidders, proceeds of sale of torn records, old furniture, &c.

7. This register must be kept in form No. 2. All chalans, whether authorising the payment of money into the Government treasury or into court, must be entered in it, but in separate columns as provided for in the form. The entries in the second column will represent the index numbers on the chalans as enjoined in rule 5. In the column "on what account (particulars)" will be entered such particulars as may be necessary for identifying each amount and writing up therefrom the several registers. Each entry will be initialed by the judicial officer at the time he passes the chalan.

8. On presentation of the duplicate chalan at the treasury as prescribed above in rule 5, and on payment of the money, the payer shall receive as an acknowledgment one of the two chalans signed by the treasury officer if the amount be more than Rs. 500, and by the accountant and treasurer if less than that sum.

9. When judgment-creditor and decree-holder are both before the court, the court may receive the deposit direct as stated in paragraph 1, and grant a receipt for the same. In such cases also the tender will be made by a chalan in duplicate as prescribed above in rule 5, the duplicate chalan returned to the payer being given to him as receipt for the money, instead of as authority for its payment into the treasury. The other items mentioned in paragraph 1 as recoverable in court will also be received according to the procedure laid down here.

10. At the close of business of each day, or on the following morning, the judicial officer will send to the treasury a pass-book in form No. 10 showing in detail the sums received from and paid to the public in cash. The receipts will be entered on the right-hand side, and will consist of the sums entered in the register of chalans (form No. 2) in the column "amount received in court." The payments will be entered on the left-hand side, and will consist of the sums shown in the register of payment orders (form No. 3) in the column "amount paid in court." The total of these entries and the balance will first have been compared by the court with the corresponding figures in the cash-book. The balance (see paragraph 15) will be sent to the treasury with the pass-book after deducting these amounts: (1) permanent advance, (2) undistributed salaries and contingencies, (3) diet-money and other peremptory cash transactions previous to decree (compare cash-book, form No. 1). The chalans and payment orders cited in the pass-book will also be sent daily to the treasury as vouchers in support of the entries.

11. Persons desiring payment of money standing at their credit in the deposit account of a judicial officer will submit to him an application for the same in part I of form No. 12, which the court will give him free of charge. These applications must comply strictly with the terms of the order under which the money is claimed. Thus, one of a number of joint decree-holders must not be allowed to take out what he calls his share in the decretal amount: they must all join in the application, or else all must be brought before the court for a specific order. Moreover, if the applicant has employed a vakil for the earlier proceedings in the case, then the application must be presented by the same vakil. If he wishes to employ another vakil or to act himself, he must first get the former vakalatnama formally rescinded by the court's permission. A separate application must be made for each deposit,—that is each application must deal only with one deposit. Fines are to be dealt with separately under special procedure, for which see paragraph 28.

12. These applications will be compared by the accountant or accounts mohurir of the court with the register of deposit receipts, and if satisfied that the amount stated has been received and is still unpaid, he will note against it the repayment required. The accountant will also examine the application in reference to the claims of the parties asking for payment. For this purpose judicial officers should endeavour* to have their deposit registers in the accountant's department furnished in respect of each item with all the information required for dealing with such applications at once, and so, as far as possible, to save reference to the original nuthuee with the delay and trouble involved thereby. In other words, attachment processes and transfer orders as to decrees, and any other orders as to substitution of parties which affect decretal and other moneys in deposit, should at the time be noted in the deposit register, the sheristadar or other subordinate being made responsible for this. If the application be correct, the accountant or the mohurir in charge will fill up the second part of the form (form No. 12), will post it in the register of payment orders issued (form No. 3), give it its proper index number, and make the necessary entries in the register of deposit repayments (form No. 5). Finally, the application with the register of payment orders and the register of deposit receipts and deposits repaid will be laid before the judicial officer. If the accountant find the application for payment order incorrect or defective, he will note the error or defect and return it to the applicant for correction by him, or for reference by the applicant to the court.

13. Before passing the application for payment, the judicial officer is required to satisfy himself, in the first instance, of the validity of the claim, and, in the case of deposits, to ascertain from his register of deposits whether the balance at credit of the particular deposit is sufficient to meet the repayment, and that there has been no order for the attachment of the money. If the claim is valid, he will sign the order for payment of the amount either from the local treasury or from his court as prescribed above in paragraph 1; and, in case of deposits, attest with his initials the note of repayment in the register of deposit receipts required in paragraph 12. He will also initial the entries in the register of payment orders issued (form No. 3) and in the register of deposits repaid (form No. 5).

14. If payment be required in court under the conditions described in paragraph 1, the judicial officer will substitute the words "nazir or sub-nazir" for "the officer in charge of the treasury," and, after initialing the alteration, will direct the applicant to take the payment order to the court nazir or cashier for payment. In such cases he will forward to the treasury, with the balance of cash and pass-book, the payment orders for each amount duly receipted by the payees, as enjoined above in paragraph 10. In all other cases the payment must be made to the payee at the treasury.

15. The total chalans of the day for money received in cash by the court, minus the total of payment orders cashed at the court, will represent the balance of cash to be remitted to the treasury (see paragraph 10). The amount so remitted will be noted on the back of the last chalan entered in the pass-book (form No. 10), in order to avoid the separate chalan which otherwise will be required by the treasury officer.

16. At the close of business each day the treasury officer, whether sudder or sub-divisional, will prepare an advice list in form No. 13 of all the chalans and payment orders of each court or office that have been presented at the treasury in the course of the day, and forward it to the court or office concerned. In this list he will enter in detail such chalans and payment orders as have been received or paid in cash, those brought into his account from the pass-book being stated in totals with the description "as per your pass-book dated——." In the list prepared at the sudder treasury for the district judge or magistrate the chalans and payment orders issued by him will be entered as above, but of those issued by the courts subordinate to him the totals only will be entered, these totals including also the amounts adjusted through the pass-book. The amounts relating to each court will be separately shown. On receipt of this list by the officer concerned, the particulars of the chalans and payment orders shown in it will be compared with the details recorded in his register of chalans and payment orders (forms Nos. 2 and 3,) and the date of actual credit and payment as certified by the treasury officer will be entered in the column prescribed for that purpose. When a deposit is repaid on the same day that it is received, the fact will have been noted by the court at the time of payment in the column for remarks in the chalan register (form No. 2).

17. The register of deposit receipts will be kept in form No. 4, and of deposit repayments in form No. 5. The former register will be in two parts,—one for petty deposits of which the amount does not exceed Rs. 5, and the other for deposits in excess of that sum. Both parts will be kept in the same form and be posted in the same manner, but with separate series of numbers which will be distinguished by the initial letters A and B respectively. The detailed check upon the petty deposits will be exercised by the presiding officer of the court in which they are received, only the deposits of more than Rs. 5 each being communicated by the subordinate courts to the district judge or magistrate, and by that officer to the accountant-general.

18. The office register of deposit receipts (form No. 4) will be written up in prescribed detail from the particulars recorded in the register of chalans as regards deposits paid into court, and as regards chalans issued for presentation at the treasury will only show those which are reported in the treasury officer's list to have been actually so presented. All items of deposit in this register must be numbered in an annual consecutive series of numbers commencing on 1st April and continuing to 31st March of each official year. Every entry in the register must be initialed by the presiding officer of the court or office after comparison with the treasury officer's list and the register of chalans. Only the first eight columns will be filled in at first, the other columns being intended for the record of subsequent repayments.* The deposit registers in courts at a sudder station will be closed on the last day of each month that the sudder treasury remains open, and in subdivisional stations on the day in which the accounts of the subdivisional treasury are finally closed for the month, in such a way that the period and the transactions reviewed in the court's set of books and returns shall correspond with, and not overlap or fall short of, those reviewed in the treasury set of books and returns.

19. This register (form No. 5) will contain the details of all deposits ordered for payment, and will be written up as described in paragraph 12. It will be compared daily with the register of payment orders issued (form No. 3). The column "date of payment" in form No. 5 will be filled up from form No. 3 as regards payments in court, and from the treasury officer's advice lists (see paragraph 16) as regards payments at the treasury.

20. In subordinate courts, when all the deposit registers are written up, two statements will be prepared daily and forwarded to the district judge or magistrate,—one in form No. 8 showing the total amount of civil suit deposits received and paid, as also of all other transactions, and the other, being an extract from the repayment register (form No. 5) giving the particulars of repayments on account of deposits exceeding in amount Rs. 5 each received in previous months. At foot of the first statement the subordinate court will certify that its registers of petty deposits are written up to date and are in order. At foot of the extract in form No. 5 for the last day of the month should be noted in detail the repayment orders granted at the court, but not yet advised as presented at the treasury. At the end of the month a third statement will be furnished by the subordinate courts to the district judge, giving particulars of deposits of more than Rs. 5 each received, but not repaid during the month. This statement will be an extract from the register of deposit receipts (form No. 4). The same remarks apply to a district magistrate. The dates of despatch from the subordinate court and of receipt by the district court will be noted on these statements.

21. On receipt of the advice lists furnished to him by the subordinate courts, the district judge or magistrate will compare them with the corresponding statements supplied to him by treasury officers under paragraph 16, and take measures at once for the reconciliation of any discrepancy that may be noticed. He will then post the figures of the daily statement of deposits received and paid into a judge's register (form No. 9) as described in the following paragraph. The figures in the daily detailed statement of deposits repaid (form No. 5) will be posted against the corresponding entries in the judge's register of deposits received (form No. 9). These postings will bear initials of the district judge, in the same manner as repayments authorized by himself. They will also at the same time be copied into his register of deposit repayments (form No. 5, paragraph 19). The figures in the subordinate courts' monthly detailed statement of deposits received will be entered by the district judge in his own register of deposits received, and will be numbered in continuation of his own series, their original numbers being also noted below the district numbers, for future reference. The same remarks apply to a district magistrate.

22. This register will be in form No. 9, and will be written up daily from the statement (form No. 8) of their daily receipts and payments furnished to the district judge and district magistrate by the courts subordinate to him. It will be in two parts—one part relating to deposits exceeding in amount Rs. 5 each, and the other to deposits of Rs. 5 and under. Separate portions of the register for the month will be allotted to each subordinate court. Thus for each subordinate court a number of pages according to the probable work will be assigned in the leaves devoted to the particular month. The entries in respect of each subordinate court will thus come continuously and in chronological order. The register will be totalled monthly. The accuracy of the register will be proved in the following manner, which will readily be understood by a reference to the form of the advice list No. 8, on which the register No. 9 is based. To prove the portion of the register No. 9 relating to deposits of more than Rs. 5, deduct the total of the column headed "repaid on account of current month" from the total of the column headed "total amount received," and the balance ought to agree exactly with the total at foot of register of outstanding deposits of over Rs. 5 furnished at the end of the month under paragraph 20 by the court to which the figures relate. To prove the portion of the register relating to deposits of Rs. 5 and less, compare the balance on the last day of the official year as entered in it, with the list of unpaid deposits to be transferred to credit of Government which subordinate courts will furnish annually to the district judge and magistrate under paragraph 27. In this portion of the register a column has been provided for a daily balance, which will be struck by adding together the preceding day's balance and receipts, and deducting the payments. The object of the daily balance is to afford the district judge or magistrate a ready means of controlling subordinate courts in the receipt and payment of small deposits, as any excess of payments over receipts will be at once detected. It is also provided as a check upon the postings themselves, for when the monthly totals are made, it will be seen at once whether they are correct, if the difference between them added to or deducted from (as the case may be) the balance at the end of the preceding month agrees with the last balance.

23. On the 5th of each month an extract register of deposit receipts will be prepared by the judge or magistrate in the form No. 14, and forwarded to the treasury officer for submission with his cash account to the accountant-general. This extract register will be a copy of the entries made during the month in his register (form No. 4), and will contain all such items of more than Rs. 5 each as were deposited in his own court and in courts subordinate to him, and remained unpaid on the last day of the month. At the foot of this register, deposits received and repaid during the month and deposits received for sums of Rs. 5 each and less will be shown in totals without details. This extract register will be despatched punctually on the 5th of the month.

24. At the same time a plus and minus memorandum, showing the total amount of deposits received and repaid during the month, with the balances on the first and last day of the month, will be prepared and entered in the following form at foot of the extract register of deposit receipts. This memorandum will comprise the figures of the judge's own plus and minus memorandum as well as those of the memoranda furnished to him by his subordinate courts.

25. A monthly extract from his register of deposit repayments (form No. 5) of sums above Rs. 5 will be forwarded in the same form by the judge or magistrate on the last day of each month to the treasury officer, for submission with his lists of payments to the accountant-general. The district judge or magistrate will include in this extract the statement of repayments on account of deposits of previous months furnished to him by subordinate courts, under paragraph 20, but instead of the number noted against them by those courts, he will enter the numbers given to the items in his own register (see above, paragraph 21). All repayments of the current month's deposits, whether made at the sudder or subdivisional treasury, as well as repayments on account of deposits of Rs. 5 and less, will be shown in totals without details. Further, separate registers are required for repayments on account of deposits received before 1st April 1875, and on and after that date, the comptroller-general having directed that distinct accounts shall be kept of these two classes of deposits. These extracts will be despatched punctually on the above dates, and at foot of the repayment register should be noted the repayment orders issued, but not yet presented, the amount being deducted from the total of the register. If paid subsequently, the amount will be added to the total of the register for the month in which the payment occurs.

26. An annual account particulars will be prepared by each judicial officer in the form No. 14, with the alterations noted below, of deposits of more than Rs. 5 each remaining unpaid over the last account year but one. It will show the balance remaining at credit of each deposit, and will be submitted to the accountant-general by the district judge or magistrate by the end of April in each year, a copy being retained in the court or office concerned. After comparison of the items in this account with the corresponding balances in the original receipt register (form No 4), the last-named document will be laid aside, and future repayments recorded only on the account particulars. When two or more years shall have passed and exhausted the space provided in the account particulars for record of repayments, any outstanding balances that may remain will be credited to Government in accordance with the following paragraph. The account particulars of subordinate courts will be prepared by those courts, and will be submitted to the district judge, who, after comparison with his own registers, will embody them in his account particulars for the accountant-general. The changes necessary to fit form No. 14 for use as an account particulars are as follows:—

Account particulars of deposits received by the _____ of _____
in 187 -7 still outstanding on 1st April 187 .

In column 5, for amount substitute balance of each deposit.

In column 6, for in the year of receipt substitute in the second year after receipt: for in the following year substitute in the third year after receipt.

In the last column, for transferred to account particulars substitute lapsed and credited to Government.

27. On the last day of each official year, all deposits or balances of deposits of more than Rs 5 and of more than three years' standing will be written off to credit of Government. The same course will be followed in regard to deposits or unpaid balances of deposits not exceeding Rs. 5 in amount which have been unclaimed for more than 12 months. For instance, on 31st March 1876, the unpaid balance of deposits of the first class received in 1872-73, and of the second class up to 1874-75, will be written off to credit of Government. These writes-off will be made on lists in form No. 15 to be compiled from the account particulars (see paragraph 26) and to be furnished to the accountant-general. The list of deposits of more than Rs. 5 received in his own and subordinate courts, and of deposits not exceeding that amount received by himself, will be prepared by the district judge or magistrate from his own register (form No. 4). The list of deposits not exceeding Rs. 5 received in subordinate courts will be prepared by those courts from their registers (form No. 4), and will be submitted to the district judge with a foot-note in the following form:—

Annual settlement of unpaid deposits
 (all courts).

|   |     |           |
|---|-----|-----------|
| Balance of deposits of more than 12 months' standing as above   | ... | Rs.       |
| Add balance of deposits received during the 12 months just over | ... | "         |
| Grand total outstanding   | ... | Rs. _____ |

The district judge or magistrate will test this list by comparison of the grand total shown therein with the balance of the running account prescribed above in paragraph 22. If they agree, he will endorse it with the certificate "examined and found correct," and forward it to the accountant-general. If they do not agree, he will at once ascertain the cause of discrepancy.

At the close of the last month of each official year, the amount of unclaimed deposits so written off the registers will be deducted from the balance of deposits in the plus and minus memorandum prescribed above in paragraph 21, but in a distinct entry to enable the accountant-general to verify it.

28. When the refund of a deposit thus written off is required by a person entitled to it, the district judge or magistrate will forward an application to the accountant-general in form No. 16, a separate form being used for each application. The accountant-general's letter of authority when received will be noted against the items in the account particulars (paragraph 26) to obviate a second application and then passed for payment at the treasury as prescribed in the form. No other record need be kept of these refunds. Applications for refund from subordinate courts will be submitted through the district judge or magistrate. The accountant-general's authorities for refund, if not paid within twelve months from date of receipt, must be returned to that officer.

29. To secure ample and methodical arrangements for bringing payer and payee into efficient and ready communication is an important part of a court's administrative duties. In so far as concerns the accounts system, it is invariably necessary to trace each item of refund under the court's orders back to its corresponding item of receipt; in other words to connect each item of a court's debit in the treasury with the corresponding item of credit, however far in time the two may be separated from each other. Accordingly, the court must take care to furnish itself and the treasury with the necessary particulars for this purpose.

30. With regard to what has just been said about bringing payer and payee under process at law into prompt communication with each other, it is true that all adjustments of money claim under decree or under suit have to be effected through the court and in no other way. But it is competent and it is often desirable for a court to require of a judgment-debtor or his vakil that when he pays in money he shall have given reasonable notice beforehand to the opposing vakil. A court should discourage attempts by a judgment-creditor to take the opponent's vakil by surprise and force him unnecessarily to take the trouble of going to the treasury and the loss from not hearing speedily of the money being available for him. For this entails needless hardship on the party adjudged to be entitled to the money, and besides it delays the adjustment of the account and so adds to the labour of all concerned—the court, the treasury, and the accountant-general. On the other hand, any mere vexatiousness on the part of a payee in delaying unreasonably to receive payment, whether as in part or as in full discharge of claim, should also be discouraged, for this also adds unnecessarily to the number of unadjusted items on the treasury's and court's books.

Importance of effecting prompt adjustment of civil suit deposits.

Court's discretionary control in this respect over payer and payee.

31. A register of fines realized will be kept in form No. 6, and will be written up from the chalangis as they are received each day. Subordinate courts will send a copy of this register daily to the district judge or magistrate for incorporation in his general fine statement to be furnished to the accountant-general through the local treasury officer. Fines will be credited to Government as soon as realized, and will under no circumstances be held in deposit. Refunds of fines will be made on a special order prepared in form No. 17, and not in the form of payment order prescribed above in paragraph 11. These special orders will be entered in the register of payment orders. The precautions prescribed above in paragraph 12 in regard to repayment of deposits will also be observed in ordering refunds of fines, and the refund should always be noted under the initials of the officer ordering payment, against the corresponding credit entry in the fine register.

32. Ordinarily one register with separate columns will suffice for dealing with receipts under this head. It will be kept in form No. 7. All receipts under these heads are to be realized by the court concerned, and by it to be forwarded to the treasury by means of the pass-book.

(1) Register of stamp penalties; (2) unclaimed property; and (3) miscellaneous judicial receipts.

33. At the treasury, receipts under any of these heads of account will be at once credited to Government. They are not to be retained immediately in deposit either at the court or at the treasury. Any refunds will be made only at the treasury, and in ordering such refunds the precautions prescribed in paragraph 31 will be observed. The reason for this difference in treatment as between these heads and civil suit deposits is, that in the latter case there are a payer and payee both interested in effecting the adjustment, whereas in the former case it is only Government that is interested. Receipts coming on this register will be taken in at the court by chalan, and will be forwarded to the treasury also by chalan, both in form No. 11. It is not necessary, however, to open for these a separate register of chalangis. It will suffice if transactions, when not numerous, are at once brought on the register (form No. 7).

34. With regard to cash receipts under stamp penalties, attention should be given to sections 20, 21, and the other sections in chapter III of the General Stamp Act, XVIII of 1869. The prescribed form for certificates as to refund is entered in form No. 17.

35. With regard to the head unclaimed or intestate property, it will be seen from the form that the register No. 7 deals only with cash receipts under this head that have remained in deposit for one year. A register for the articles themselves before sale will be found in form No. 18. Under the head miscellaneous will be comprised all receipts not falling within any of the other principal heads of receipts, e. g. forfeiture of earnest-money, &c., sale-proceeds of old records or furniture, &c.

36. It will have been seen from the headings given in the prescribed form of the general cash-book that the present set of rules contemplates certain subsidiary cash-books. The precise forms for these subsidiary cash-books will be left to the different courts, according to their various requirements. But each court is hereby directed to report to its superior authority the precise forms which it may adopt. And no court is to permit any subsidiary cash-book whose contents are not day by day transferred into the general cash-book. It is desirable here to prescribe specifically, as binding on all courts, a subsidiary cash-book dealing with WITNESSES' EXPENSES AND PRISONERS' DIET-MONEY.

37. Each court will require its nazir to keep, in such form as the court according to its requirements may prescribe, a SUBSIDIARY CASH-BOOK FOR DIET-MONEY AND OTHER PEREMPTORY TRANSACTIONS PRIOR TO JUDGMENT OR EXECUTION. In this book the nazir will keep a detailed account of all the sums which he receives and disburses on account of witnesses' expenses and prisoners' diet. He will close and balance this account daily. The opening and closing balances, as also the total receipts and total payments on this account for the day, will be posted daily into the court's general cash-book (form No. 1). The entries in the subsidiary cash-book relating to diet-money will be daily examined and initialed by the presiding officer of the court. The balances of the nazir's account in respect of diet-money will be incorporated day by day with that of the general cash-book; and these will come under daily review, together with the rest of the court's balance. To prevent unduly retarded accumulations under this head, the presiding officer of the court will transfer to deposits such portions of the balance as he may consider advisable. Amounts so transferred, if subsequently required, will be withdrawn from deposits in the manner described above, and credited in the subsidiary cash-book. Should such sums remain in deposit for three years they will be carried to credit of Government under paragraph 27 relating to lapsed deposits.

38. Small cause court judges, moonsifs, and other officers who hold their courts at a distance from the sudder station, or the head-quarters of a subdivision, will be guided by the above rules, with the following exceptions. The remittances to the treasury cannot be made daily, but they will be made as often as practicable, and not less than once a month. In making these remittances the police rules as to escort with the money will be duly observed. Care will also be taken that the entire cash balance on the last day of each month, less the amount of permanent advance and of diet-money in hand, is punctually paid into the treasury, as otherwise the monthly accounts of the court and the treasury will not agree. The cash balance retained under this rule on other than the last day of the month must never be allowed to exceed Rs. 500.

39. During the absence on tour of subdivisional officers, and the consequent closing of their treasuries, moonsifs must be guided by the preceding rule for officers at stations where there are no treasuries making remittances of surplus cash, if necessary, to the district treasury. They will take advantage of the periodical returns of the subdivisional officers to head-quarters, to reduce the cash balances in their hands as much as possible, having due regard to their probable requirements.

40. In carrying out the above rules, care will be taken by all judicial officers that in respect of cash transactions in the court distinct officers be employed as accountant and cashier. In other words, the same officer should not keep the registers of chalans and payment orders, deposit registers, &c., and also receive and pay money and write the rough cash-book. In receiving money the ordinary procedure will be for the payer to take the chalan to the accountant or accounts mohurrir, who will enter it in the register of chalans and return it to the payer, with instructions to carry it to the cashier or nazir, who will receive the money and enter it in his rough cash-book. Similarly, in paying money the accountant will prepare the payment order, and, after posting it in his register of payment orders and register of deposits repaid, will carry all these to the judicial officer, who will examine and sign them as described in paragraph 13. The payment order will then be returned to the payee, with instructions to carry it to the cashier or nazir, if it is to be paid in court. In carrying out this rule, as also rules 2 and 12, it should be made clear and placed on record how far the sheristadar is responsible in these matters.

41. The accounts and registers in forms 1 to 7, together with the rough cash-book mentioned in paragraph 40, will be compared daily by the judge or other presiding officer of the court, and this rule must on no account be neglected, as it is essential to the integrity of the transactions and the correctness of the books. The notes at foot of the forms indicate how the verification will be made.

42. With regard to the permanent advance, special orders issue on this subject for the various courts. No further notice is called for here, except to observe that the permanent advance is to be accounted for in the cash-book (form No. 1), according to the spaces provided. It will be remembered that the permanent advance is to be reserved strictly for the purposes for which it was prescribed. For example, refunds of civil suit deposits are on no account to be adjusted through the permanent advance.

No. 3, dated the 6th February 1877.

THE attention of all Civil Courts is directed to the annexed correspondence.

W. M. SOUTTAR,
Registrar.

From J. A. BOURDILLON, Esq., Officiating Inspector-General of Registration, to the Registrar of the High Court, Appellate Jurisdiction,—No. 6003, dated Calcutta, the 19th December 1876.

I HAVE the honor to forward, for the information of the Hon'ble Court, extract (paragraph 16) from a report of an inspection of the sub-registry office at Baraset, dated 30th October last, and to request that suitable orders may be issued with a view to the amendment of the procedure therein noticed.

2. Under section 22 of the Indian Registration Act, VIII of 1871, a description of the property comprised in a document sufficient to identify it is necessary to its registration. When such description is omitted or is not entered in sufficient detail, much confusion and doubt may arise as to the identity of the land to which the document refers, and this doubt is indefinitely prolonged if the document is registered and copied in its imperfect state into the departmental registers.

Registering officers are ordered to refuse to register documents unless the descriptions they contain are reasonably clear, and they are instructed to return for completion those in which the description of land is imperfect.

4. It would save much time and trouble if the attention of all judicial officers were drawn by the Hon'ble Judges to the necessity of supplying as full a description as possible in sale certificates and other documents sent for registration.

Extract (paragraph 16) from a memorandum of an inspection of the Sub-Registry Office at Baraset made by Mr. Gillon on the 30th October 1876.

Para. 16. The Sub-Registrar further represented that sale certificates given by Moonsifs ordinarily described a sub-tenure as a jumma standing in the name of A. B. in the village of C., of which the rent is Rs. , without mentioning boundaries or other particulars essential for the identification of the land, and that it was decided by the Inspector-General that this description did not satisfy the requirements of section 22 of the Registration Act: that he consequently refuses to accept such documents for registration, but that they are, notwithstanding, registered elsewhere, while no amendment has taken place in the procedure of the Moonsifs. It thus results that the Sub-Registrar is a loser, and the public no gainer. This is a matter that might perhaps be brought to the notice of the High Court. Such certificates in most districts contain very few details. Moreover, I have seen some which have been signed by a stamped impression of the judicial officer's signature.

From W. M. SOUTTAR, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to the Inspector-General of Registration,—No. 178, dated Calcutta, the 27th January 1877.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 6003, dated the 19th ultimo, suggesting that the attention of all judicial officers may be drawn to the necessity of supplying as full descriptions of property as possible in sale certificates and other documents sent for registration.

2. The reference appears to have originated out of cases in which sale certificates given by Moonsifs did not give particulars as fully as the Registration Department requires. There is, however, some difficulty in the matter.

3. In the case of an ordinary conveyance, the purchaser can take care, when the deed is drawn up, that a proper description is furnished and inserted therein by his vendor, and if he has neglected this, the Registrar may reasonably refuse to register.

4. But in a sale by order of Court, the Court can only put into the certificate what it has already put into the notice of sale (section 249, Civil Procedure Code), and there is ordinarily no communication between the certified purchaser on the one hand and the execution creditor or the sold-out owner on the other. Further, the Code is silent as to the sort of description which must be given as to immoveable property not being estates paying revenue to Government.

5. Under these circumstances, all that can be done is to direct judicial officers to instruct their subordinates to give as accurate a description as the nature of each case will admit of; and this will be done.

No. 4, dated the 10th February 1877.

THE High Court, having observed that irregularities of various kinds are favoured by the custom prevalent in many Courts of receiving petitions through the office instead of on the bench, directs that petitions shall always be taken in open court and usually at the first sitting of the court daily.

CRIMINAL.

No. 1, dated the 12th January 1877.

WITH reference to the High Court's circular order No. 15, dated the 16th December 1875, the Court directs that when a Divisional Commissioner requires the records of a criminal trial in order to satisfy himself whether Government should be moved to direct an appeal against an original or appellate judgment of acquittal under section 272, Criminal Procedure Code, the Judge shall comply with the application.

2. It is to be understood that any records which Commissioners may obtain in the manner above indicated shall remain in their own custody till returned to the Judge, unless it be considered that there are grounds for appealing against the decision, in which case, of course, the records will be transmitted for the consideration of Government.

Sheriff's Office, the 14th February 1877.

NOTICE is hereby given that the third Criminal Sessions of the year 1877, of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, for the Town of Calcutta and Factory of Fort William and the places subordinate thereto, will be holden at the Court-house, in the Town of Calcutta, on Thursday, the Fifteenth day of March next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and so on from day to day until the said Sessions be over. And it is hereby proclaimed that all persons who will prosecute any of the prisoners to be brought up for trial at the said Session be then and there to prosecute.

The Managers submitted, on the 26th of January 1876, a statement in connection with the application of Mrs. Belli for pension. They were of opinion that that lady was not entitled to the Fund allowance, on the ground that her husband had made such a disposition of his property as caused his widow to become chargeable on the Fund. They accordingly recommended that her application should be disallowed, and the meeting approved the recommendation. Mr. Lane proposes to move a resolution with reference to Mrs. Belli's case at this meeting.

The Government of India, in their letter No. 3285, dated 9th October last, informing the Managers that Mr. A. G. Walker had been removed from the Service, and that Rs. 4,432 representing the amount of his subscription to the Fund, with interest, had been paid to him, enquired whether the Managers would consider it proper to recommend to the Service the repayment of the amount to Government. The Managers replied that a refund of subscription under such circumstances would be without precedent, and that they would be acting in opposition to existing rules and practice if they were to make the desired recommendation to the subscribers.

The report on the history of the Fund, prepared by Mr. O'Kinealy, having been submitted to the special general meeting of subscribers held on the 1st November last, the Managers were requested to prepare and forward an answer to the letter of the Government of India, No. 4377, of the 28th October 1875. Their reply is now submitted for the information of the subscribers.

The Managers, having reason to believe that the Government of India had submitted for the opinion of counsel a statement of the questions at issue with the Fund, asked to be favoured with a copy of the statement, as well as of the opinion recorded upon it by the legal advisers of Government. The Government of India declined to accede to this request.

A question having been raised as to the nature of the proof of marriage which would be required under Article XXV of the rules from Messrs. Romesh Chunder Dutt and Behari Lal Gupta, the two native subscribers to the Fund, it was ascertained that the only evidence forthcoming would be the statements of credible witnesses. To meet the cases of these gentlemen, therefore, the Managers have notified, under Article XVII (18) of the Rules, the following addition to Article XXV, which they submit for consideration:—

"Provided that a declaration on oath by not less than two eye-witnesses will be considered sufficient proof of marriage in the cases of Messrs. Romesh Chunder Dutt and Behari Lal Gupta."

The accounts of the past year 1875-76 are submitted.

CIVIL FUND OFFICE ;
The 31st January 1877. }

E. E.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secretary and Accountant.

Proposed by Mr. Robert Taylor,

Seconded by Mr. T. F. Bignold, and carried unanimously—

That the Managers' proceedings in admitting the families of the late Messrs. Carpenter, Elliott, Glover, Walton, and R. H. Clifford to the benefits of the Fund be confirmed and the report and accounts be generally adopted.

Proposed by Hon'ble F. R. Cockerell,

Seconded by Mr. R. Taylor—

That to Article XXV of the rules be added the words "provided that a declaration on oath by not less than two eye witnesses will be considered sufficient proof of marriage in the cases of Messrs. Romesh Chunder Dutt and Beharilal Gupta."

Mr. Bell proposed that the words "prima facie" be substituted for "sufficient." This amendment was seconded by Mr. O'Kinealy and carried unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. T. Bruce Lane,

Seconded by Mr. A. T. Maclean, and carried unanimously—

That the following gentlemen be elected managers for the ensuing year :—Hon'ble L. S. Jackson, A. Money, Esq., C. T. Buckland, Esq., J. O'Kinealy, Esq., W. M. Souttar, Esq.

Mr. Lane drew the attention of the meeting to Mrs. Belli's case, stating that he did so at the request of Mrs. Belli, who had been informed by the Secretary, in his letter of the 12th July 1876, that any individual manager or member of the Service could bring forward her case at a half-yearly meeting. He urged that the disposition of his property made by Mr. Belli, by which his widow was declared by the Managers to have been thrown on the Fund, was an irrevocable trust settlement made in February 1867, at a time when Mr. Belli was 75 years old, had been a widower for some years, and had no children in circumstances which could enable them to make any claim upon the Fund. Presumably he was not at that time likely to marry again; but even assuming that he might do so, he would be then still in the position of a bachelor subscriber, who might make a trust settlement beyond his power to revoke hereafter, and might still marry after doing so without forfeiting his rights in the Fund. Mr. Lane further contended that there was no actual proof of any intention on Mr. Belli's part, when making the trust settlement of February 1867, "to benefit any party at the expense of the Fund," and that it was not right to throw on the widow of a marriage subsequently contracted the onus of proving the negative statement that no such intention existed. Mr. Belli's remarriage three months after he executed the settlement, though it might be considered suspicious, was not actual proof of such intention, and therefore insufficient to justify the extreme measure of refusing a pension to the widow. Looking therefore to the fact that the effect of the trust settlement, at the time when it was made, was not to "throw the support, entire or partial," of a single person on the Fund, that Mr. Belli had, as subscriber to the Fund, paid up more than Rs. 50,000, and that Mrs. Belli was now in a state of comparative poverty, Mr. Lane proposed that the decision of the half-yearly meeting of January 1876, refusing the application of Mrs. Belli for admission to the Fund under the old rules, should be submitted for the reconsideration of the Service.

Mr. O'Kinealy seconded the motion.

At the request of some of the subscribers present the Secretary then read the note which had formed the basis of the Managers' decision on the case.

"The accounts forwarded by Mrs. Belli show that her husband's property at his death was worth £21,727-6-9, and the income derivable from this property would be sufficient to absolutely exclude his widow and other members of his family from benefits under the old rules. On the 22nd February 1867 Mr. Belli made a settlement in trust for his three children of property now valued at £15,000, the condition of the settlement being that £5,000 was to be secured to each of these children and the balance was to form part of his own estate. A few months later, namely, on the 23rd of May 1867, he was married to his present widow. It would now appear from the papers submitted to the Managers that the property embraced by the deed of settlement is not more than sufficient to provide the sum of £15,000 to the children, and that there is no balance for credit to his own estate to which his widow is heir. The first question therefore to be determined is whether the assignment before Mr. Belli's second marriage of property worth £15,000 to the children of his first wife does or does not defeat the claim of his second wife to fund benefits under the old rules. The rule governing this question will be found in Article 26 of the old rules. Under the second paragraph of that article it is declared that a disposal of his property by a subscriber to the prejudice of the Fund debarra his family from benefits if the subscriber's intention be to benefit any party at the expense of the Fund. In the present case the date of the settlement was the 22nd of February 1867, and that of his marriage the 23rd May 1867, so that it is far from improbable that at the time of making the settlement Mr. Belli contemplated his second marriage, and in this case his widow would be absolutely precluded from the benefits of the Fund. But even supposing that at the time of making the settlement he had not in contemplation his immediate marriage, Mr. Belli must have well known that if he did remarry the trust then made by him would have the effect of reducing his second wife's income so as to entitle her (other considerations apart) to fund benefits. If therefore a subscriber is presumed to intend the natural result of his acts, Mrs. Belli is now entirely excluded from fund benefits."

The Managers acting on this note held adversely to Mrs. Belli's claim, and submitted their decision to the general meeting of 26th January 1876, with the following report :—

The Managers also submit to this meeting the following statement in connection with the application of Mrs. Belli for pension :—Mr. Belli was a subscriber to the Fund under the old rules, and at the time of his decease, 20th July last, left property worth £21,727, out of which he was bound, under Article 26 of the old rules, to make a proper provision for his wife. That Article is as follows :—

"In case it shall be proved to the conviction of a general meeting of subscribers that a deceased member of this Fund has during his life-time, whether in immediate anticipation of his death or otherwise, made such a disposition of any part of his property, real or personal, as but for this rule would throw the entire or partial support of his widow or offspring upon the Fund, who would not have been so supported by the Fund had such part of his property not been so disposed of, with the intention thereby of benefiting any party at the expense of the Fund, then the widow or offspring of such a member or both shall forfeit all right to any part of the support which would have been claimable if no such disposition had been made."

"It is hereby declared that a general meeting of the latter (i.e., subscribers), duly held according to the rules of the institution, shall have full power to reject the application for aid from the Fund in any instance in which it may appear that a subscriber having property at his death, and having the power to dispose of it, has made no due provision for his family."

The Managers in administering the affairs of the Fund have invariably considered all private income left by a subscriber at death as available for the support of his family without reference to appropriations by testament or otherwise. In the present case Mr. Belli made such a disposition of his property in his life-time, namely, a trust in favour of his children by his first wife, but but for Article 26 his widow would be chargeable on the Fund. Under these circumstances the Managers consider the widow not entitled to the Fund allowance, and they now submit the case to the general meeting, and recommend that Mrs. Belli's application be disallowed.

The Managers' recommendation was approved by a resolution of the general meeting."

Some conversation ensued with regard to the general aspects of the case as disclosed in the foregoing proceedings. Attention was also called to Article 18 of the rules prescribing the manner in which alone the resolution of the general meeting could be revised, and to the fact that the procedure therein laid down had not been complied with.

Mr. Lane's motion, on being put to the meeting, was lost.

- 'trustee.'

Illustrations.

(a.) Z bequeaths land to A, 'not doubting that he will pay thereout an annuity of Rs. 1,000 to B for his life.' A accepts the bequest. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act for B to the extent of the annuity.

(b.) A is the legal, medical, or spiritual adviser of B. By availing himself of his situation as such adviser A gains some pecuniary advantage which might otherwise have accrued to B. A is a trustee for B within the meaning of this Act of such advantage.

(c.) A being B's banker discloses, for his own purpose, the state of B's account. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act for B of the benefit gained by him by means of such disclosure.

(d.) A, the mortgagee of certain lease holds, renews the lease in his own name. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act of the renewed lease for those interested in the original lease.

(e.) A, one of several partners, is employed to purchase goods for the firm. A, unknown to his co-partners, supplies them, at the market-price, with goods previously bought by himself when the price was lower, and thus makes a considerable profit. A is a trustee for his co-partners within the meaning of this Act of the profit so made.

(f.) A, the manager of B's indigo factory, becomes agent for C, a vendor of indigo-seed, and receives, without B's assent, commission on the seed purchased from C for the factory. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act for B of the commission so received.

(g.) A buys certain land with notice that B has already contracted to buy it. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act for B of the land so bought.

(h.) A buys land from B, having notice that C is in occupation of the land. A omits to make any inquiry as to the nature of C's interest therein. A is a trustee within the meaning of this Act for C to the extent of that interest.

'settlement' means any instrument (other than a will or codicil as defined by the Indian Succession Act) whereby the destination or devolution of successive interests in moveable or immoveable property is disposed of or is agreed to be disposed of:

and all words occurring in this Act, which are defined in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall be deemed to have the meanings respectively assigned to them by that Act.

4. Except where it is herein otherwise expressly enacted, nothing in this Act shall be deemed—

(a) to give any right to relief in respect of any agreement which is not a contract;

(b) to deprive any person of any right to relief, other than specific performance, which he may have under any contract; or

(c) to affect the operation of the Indian Registration Act on documents.

5. Specific relief is given—

(a) by taking possession of certain property and delivering it to a claimant;

(b) by ordering a party to do the very act which he is under an obligation to do;

(c) by preventing a party from doing that which he is under an obligation not to do;

(d) by determining and declaring the rights of parties otherwise than by an award of compensation; or

(e) by appointing a Receiver.

6. Specific relief granted under clause (c) of section 5 is called preventive relief.

7. Specific relief cannot be granted for the mere purpose of enforcing a penal law.

PART II.*OF SPECIFIC RELIEF.*CHAPTER I.OF RECOVERING POSSESSION OF PROPERTY.(a.)—Possession of Immoveable Property.

8. A person entitled to the possession of specific immoveable property may recover it in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure.

9. If any person is dispossessed without his consent of immoveable property otherwise than in due course of law, he or any person claiming through him may, by suit instituted within six months from the date of the dispossession, recover possession thereof, notwithstanding any other title that may be set up in such suit.

Nothing in this section shall bar any person from suing to establish his title to such property and to recover possession thereof.

No suit under this section shall be brought against the Government.

No appeal shall lie from any order or decree passed in any suit instituted under this section, nor shall any review of any such order or decree be allowed.

(b.)—Possession of Moveable Property.

10. A person entitled to the possession of specific moveable property may recover the same in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure.

EXPLANATION 1.—A trustee may sue under this section for the possession of property to the beneficial interest in which the person for whom he is trustee is entitled.

EXPLANATION 2.—A special or temporary right to the present possession of property is sufficient to support a suit under this section.

Illustrations.

(a.) A bequeaths land to B for his life, with remainder to C. A dies. B enters on the land, but C, without B's consent, obtains possession of the title deeds. B may recover them from C.

(b.) A pledges certain jewels to B to secure a loan. B disposes of them before he is entitled to do so. A, without having paid or tendered the amount of the loan, sues B for possession of the jewels. The suit should be dismissed, as A is not entitled to their possession, whatever right he may have to secure their safe custody.

(c.) A receives a letter addressed to him by B. B gets back the letter without A's consent. A has such a property therein as entitles him to recover it from B.

(d.) A deposits books and papers for safe custody with B. B loses them and C finds them, but refuses to deliver them to B when demanded. B may recover them from C, subject to C's right, if any, under section 168 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

(e.) A, a warehouse-keeper, is charged with the delivery of certain goods to Z, which B takes out of A's possession. A may sue B for the goods.

11. Any person having the possession or control of a particular article of moveable property, of which he is not the owner, may be compelled specifically to deliver it to the person entitled to its immediate possession in any of the following cases:—

(a) when the thing claimed is held by the defendant as the agent or trustee of the claimant;

(b) when compensation in money would not afford the claimant adequate relief for the loss of the thing claimed.

(c) when it would be extremely difficult to ascertain the actual damage caused by its loss.

(d) when the possession of the thing claimed has been wrongfully transferred from the claimant.

Illustrations

of clause (a).—A, proceeding to Europe, leaves his furniture in charge of B as his agent during his absence. B, without A's authority, pledges the furniture to C, and C, knowing that B had no right to pledge the furniture advertises it for sale. C may be compelled to deliver the furniture to A, for he holds it as A's trustee.

of clause (b).—Z has got possession of an idol belonging to A's family, and of which A is the proper custodian. Z may be compelled to deliver the idol to A.

of clause (c).—A is entitled to a picture by a dead painter and a pair of rare China vases. B has possession of them. The articles are of too special a character to bear an ascertainable market-value. B may be compelled to deliver them to A.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS.

(a).—Contracts which may be specifically enforced.

12. Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, the specific performance of any contract may in the discretion of the Court be enforced—

Cases in which specific performance enforceable.

(a) when the act agreed to be done is in the performance, wholly or partly, of a trust:

(b) when there exists no standard for ascertaining the actual damage caused by the non-performance of the act agreed to be done:

(c) when the act agreed to be done is such that pecuniary compensation for its non-performance would not afford adequate relief; or

(d) when it is probable that pecuniary compensation cannot be got for the non-performance of the act agreed to be done.

EXPLANATION.—Unless and until the contrary is proved, the court shall presume that the breach of a contract to transfer immoveable property cannot be adequately relieved by compensation in money, and that the breach of a contract to transfer moveable property can be thus relieved.

Illustrations

of clause (a).—A holds certain stock in trust for B. A wrongfully disposes of the stock. The law creates an obligation on A to restore the same quantity of stock to B, and B may enforce specific performance of this obligation.

of clause (b).—A agrees to buy, and B agrees to sell, a picture by a dead painter and two rare China vases. A may compel B specifically to perform this contract, for there is no standard for ascertaining the actual damage which would be caused by its non-performance.

of clause (c).—A contracts with B to sell him a house for Rs. 1,000. B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey the house to him, he paying the purchase-money.

In consideration of being released from certain obligations imposed on it by its Act of incorporation, a railway company contract with Z to make an archway through their railway to connect lands of Z severed by the railway, to construct a road between certain specified points, to pay a certain annual sum towards the maintenance of this road, and also to construct a siding and a wharf as specified in the contract. Z is entitled to have this contract specifically enforced, for his interest in its performance cannot be adequately compensated for by money; and the Court may appoint a proper person to superintend the construction of the archway, road, siding and wharf.

A contracts to sell, and B contracts to buy, a certain number of railway shares of a particular description. A refuses to complete the sale. B may compel A specifically to perform this agreement, for the shares are limited in number and not always to be had in the market, and their possession carries with it the status of a shareholder, which cannot otherwise be procured.

A contracts with B to paint a picture for B, who agrees to pay therefor Rs. 1,000. The picture is painted. B is entitled to have it delivered to him on payment or tender of the Rs. 1,000.

of clause (d).—A transfers without endorsement, but for valuable consideration, a promissory note to B. A becomes insolvent, and C is appointed his assignee. B may compel C to endorse the note, for C has succeeded to A's liabilities, and a decree for pecuniary compensation for not endorsing the note would be fruitless.

13. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, a contract is not wholly impossible of performance because a portion of its subject-matter existing at its date has ceased to exist at the time of the performance.

Illustrations.

(a.) A contracts to sell a house to B for a lakh of rupees. The day after the contract is made the house is destroyed by a cyclone. B may be compelled to perform his part of the contract by paying the purchase-money.

(b.) In consideration of a sum of money payable by B. A contracts to grant an annuity to B for B's life. The day after the contract has been made B is thrown from his horse and killed. B's representative may be compelled to pay the purchase-money.

14. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, but the part which must be left unperformed bears only a small proportion to the whole in value, and admits of compensation in money, the Court may, at the suit of either party, direct the specific performance of so much of the contract as can be performed, and award compensation in money for the deficiency.

Illustrations.

(a.) A contracts to sell B a piece of land consisting of 100 beeghas. It turns out that 98 beeghas of the land belong to A, and the two remaining beeghas to a stranger, who refuses to part with them. The two beeghas are not necessary for the use or enjoyment of the 98 beeghas, nor so important for such use or enjoyment that the loss of them may not be made good in money. A may be directed at the suit of B to convey to B the 98 beeghas and to make compensation to him for not conveying the two remaining beeghas; or B may be directed, at the suit of A, to pay to A, on receiving the conveyance and possession of the land, the stipulated purchase-money, less a sum awarded as compensation for the deficiency.

(b.) In a contract for the sale and purchase of a house and lands for two lakhs of rupees it is agreed that part of the furniture should be taken at a valuation. The Court may direct specific performance of the contract notwithstanding the parties are unable to agree as to the valuation of the furniture, and may either have the furniture valued in the suit and include it in the decree for specific performance, or may confine its decree to the house.

15. Where a party to a contract is unable to perform the whole of his part of it, and the part which must be left unperformed forms a considerable portion of the whole, or does not admit of compensation in money, he is not entitled to obtain a decree for specific performance. But the Court may, at the suit of the other party, direct the party in default to perform specifically so much of his part of the contract as he can perform, provided that the plaintiff relinquishes all claim to further performance and all right to compensation,

Specific performance of part of a contract where the part unperformed is large.

(c.) A contracts to sell, and B contracts to buy, certain land. To protect the land from floods, it is necessary for its owner to maintain an expensive embankment. B does not know of this circumstance, and A conceals it from him. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to A.

(d.) A's property is put up to auction. B requests O, A's attorney, to bid for him. C does this inadvertently and in good faith. The persons present seeing the vendor's attorney bidding, think that he is a mere puffer and cease to compete. The lot is knocked down to B at a low price. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

II. Where the performance of the contract would involve some hardship on the defendant which he did not foresee, whereas its non-performance would involve no such hardship on the plaintiff.

Illustrations.

(e.) A is entitled to some land under his father's will on condition that, if he sells it within twenty-five years, half the purchase-money shall go to B. A, forgetting the condition, contracts, before the expiration of the twenty-five years, to sell the land to C. Here the enforcement of the contract would operate so harshly on A, that the Court will not compel its specific performance in favour of C.

(f.) A and B, trustees, join their beneficiary, C, in a contract to sell the trust-estate to D, and personally agree to exonerate the estate from heavy incumbrances to which it is subject. The purchase-money is not nearly enough to discharge those incumbrances, though, at the date of the contract, the vendors believed it to be sufficient. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to D.

(g.) A, the owner of an estate, contracts to sell it to B, and stipulates that he, A, shall not be obliged to define its boundary. The estate really comprises a valuable property not known to either to be part of it. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B, unless he waives his claim to the unknown property.

(h.) A contracts with B to sell him certain land, and to make a road to it from a certain railway-station. It is found afterwards that A cannot make the road without exposing himself to litigation. Specific performance of the part of the contract relating to the road should be refused to B, even though it may be held that he is entitled to specific performance of the rest with compensation for loss of the road.

(i.) A, a lessee of mines, contracts with B, his lessor, that at any time during the continuance of the lease B may give notice of his desire to take the machinery and plant used in and about the mines, and that he shall have the articles specified in his notice delivered to him at a valuation on the expiry of the lease. Such a contract might be most injurious to the lessee's business, and specific performance of it should be refused to B.

(j.) A contracts to buy certain land from B. The contract is silent as to access to the land. No right of way to it can be shown to exist. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

(k.) A contracts with B to buy from B's manufactory and not elsewhere all the goods of a certain class used by A in his trade. The Court cannot compel B to supply the goods, but if he does not supply them, A may be ruined, unless he is allowed to buy them elsewhere. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

III. Where the plaintiff has done substantial acts or suffered losses in consequence of a contract capable of specific performance.

Illustration.

A sells land to a railway company who contract to execute certain works for his convenience. The company take the land and use it for their railway. Specific performance of the contract to execute the works should be decreed in favour of A.

(d.)—For whom Contracts may be specifically enforced.

23. Except as otherwise provided by this chapter, the specific performance of a contract may be obtained by—

Who may obtain specific performance.

(a) any party thereto;

(b) the representative in interest, or the principal, of any party thereto: provided that, where the learning, skill, solvency or any personal quality of such party is a material ingredient in the contract, or where the contract provides that his interest shall not be assigned, his representative in interest or his principal shall not be entitled to specific performance of the contract, unless where his part thereof has already been performed;

(c) where the contract is a settlement on marriage, or a compromise of doubtful rights between members of the same family, any person beneficially entitled thereunder;

(d) where the contract has been entered into by a tenant for life in due exercise of a power, the remainderman;

(e) a reversioner in possession, where the agreement is a covenant entered into with his predecessor in title and the reversioner is entitled to the benefit of such covenant;

(f) a reversioner in remainder, where the agreement is such a covenant, and the reversioner is entitled to the benefit thereof and will sustain material injury by reason of its breach;

(g) when a public company has entered into a contract and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another public company, the new company which arises out of the amalgamation;

(h) when the promoters of a public company have, before its incorporation, entered into a contract for the purposes of the company, and such contract is warranted by the terms of the incorporation, the company.

(e.)—For whom Contracts cannot be specifically enforced.

24. Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person—

(a) who could not recover compensation for its breach;

(b) who has become incapable of performing, or violates, any essential term of the contract that on his part remains to be performed; or

(c) who has already chosen his remedy and obtained satisfaction for the alleged breach of contract;

(d) who, previously to the contract had notice that a settlement of the subject-matter thereof, (though not founded on any valuable consideration) had been made and was then in force.

Illustrations

to clause (a.)—A, in the character of agent for B, enters into an agreement with C to buy C's house. A is in reality acting, not as agent for B, but on his own account. A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract.

to clause (b.)—A contracts to sell B a house and to become tenant thereof for a term of fourteen years from the date of the sale at a specified yearly rent. A becomes insolvent. Neither he nor his assignee can enforce specific performance of the contract.

A contracts to sell B a house and garden in which there are ornamental trees, a material element in the value of the property as a residence. A without B's consent fells the trees. A cannot enforce specific performance of the contract.

A, holding land under a contract with B for a lease, commits waste, or treats the land in an unhusbandlike manner. A cannot enforce specific performance of the contract.

A contracts to let, and B contracts to take, an unfinished house, B contracting to finish the house and the lease to contain covenants on the part of A to keep the house in repair. B finishes the house in a very defective manner; he cannot enforce the contract specifically, though A and B may sue each other for compensation for breach of it.

to clause (c.)—A contracts to let, and B contracts to take, a house for a specified term at a specified rent. B refuses to perform the contract. A thereupon sues for and obtains compensation for the breach of contract. A cannot obtain specific performance of the contract.

25. A contract for the sale or letting of property, whether moveable or immoveable, cannot be specifically enforced in favour of a vendor or lessor—

Contracts to sell property by one who has no title or who is a voluntary settler.

(a) who, knowing himself not to have any title to the property, has contracted to sell or let the same;

(b) who, though he entered into the contract believing that he had a good title to the property, cannot at the time fixed by the parties or by the Court for the completion of the sale or letting, give the purchaser or lessee a title free from reasonable doubt;

(c) who, previous to entering into the contract, has made a settlement (though not founded on any valuable consideration) of the subject-matter of the contract.

Illustrations.

(a.) A, without C's authority, contracts to sell to B an estate which A knows to belong to C. A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract, even though C is willing to confirm it.

(b.) A bequeaths his land to trustees, declaring that they may sell it with the consent in writing of B. B gives a general prospective assent in writing to any sale which the trustees may make. The trustees then enter into a contract with C to sell him the land. C refuses to carry out the contract. The trustees cannot specifically enforce this contract, as, in the absence of B's consent to the particular sale to C, the title which they can give C is, as the law stands, not free from reasonable doubt.

(c.) A, being in possession of certain land, contracts to sell it to Z. On inquiry it turns out that A claims the land as heir of B, who left the country several years before, and is generally believed to be dead, but of whose death there is no sufficient proof. A cannot compel Z specifically to perform the contract.

(d.) A, out of natural love and affection, makes a settlement of certain property on his brothers and their issue, and afterwards enters into a contract to sell the property to a stranger. A cannot enforce specific performance of this contract so as to override the settlement and thus prejudice the interests of the persons claiming under it.

(f.)—For whom Contracts cannot be specifically enforced except with a variation.

26. Where a plaintiff seeks specific performance of a contract in writing, to which the defendant sets up a variation, the plaintiff cannot obtain the performance sought except with the variation so set up, in the following cases (namely):—

Non-enforcement except with variation.

(a) where by fraud or mistake of fact the contract of which performance is sought is in terms different from that which the defendant supposed it to be when he entered into it;

(b) where by fraud, mistake of fact, or surprise the defendant entered into the contract under a reasonable misapprehension as to its effect as between himself and the plaintiff;

(c) where the defendant, knowing the terms of the contract and understanding its effect, has entered into it relying upon some misrepresentation by the plaintiff, or upon some stipulation on the plaintiff's part, which adds to the contract, but which he refuses to fulfil;

(d) where the object of the parties was to produce a certain legal result, which the contract as framed is not calculated to produce;

(e) where the parties have, subsequently to the execution of the contract, contracted to vary it.

Illustrations.

(a.) A, B, and C sign a writing by which they purport to contract each to enter into a bond to D for Rs. 1,000. In a suit by D to make A, B, and C separately liable each to the extent of Rs. 1,000, they prove that the word 'each' was inserted by mistake; that the intention was that they should give a joint bond for Rs. 1,000. A can obtain the performance sought only with the variation thus set up.

(b.) A sues B to compel specific performance of a contract in writing to buy a dwelling-house. B proves that he assumed that the contract included an adjoining yard, and the contract was so framed as to leave it doubtful whether the yard was so included or not. The Court will refuse to enforce the contract, except with the variation set up by B.

(c.) A contracts in writing to let to B a wharf, together with a strip of A's land delineated in a map. Before signing the contract, B proposed orally that he should be at liberty to substitute for the strip mentioned in the contract another strip of A's land of the same dimensions, and to this A expressly assented. B then signed the written contract. A cannot obtain specific performance of the written contract, except with the variation set up by B.

(d.) A and B enter into negotiations for the purpose of securing land to B for his life, with remainder to his issue. They execute a contract, the terms of which are found to confer an absolute ownership on B. The contract so framed cannot be specifically enforced.

(e.) A contracts in writing to let a house to B, for a certain term, at the rent of Rs. 100 per month, putting it first into tenantable repair. The house turns out to be not worth repairing, so with B's consent A pulls it down and erects a new house in its place: B contracting orally to pay rent at Rs. 120 per mensem. B then sues to enforce specific performance of the contract in writing. He cannot enforce it except with the variations made by the subsequent oral contract.

(g.)—Against whom Contracts may be specifically enforced.

27. Except as otherwise provided by this chapter, specific performance of a contract may be enforced against—

(a)* either party thereto;

(b) any other person claiming under him by a title arising subsequently to the contract, except a transferee for value, who has paid his money in good faith and without notice of the original contract;

(c) any person claiming under a title which, though prior to the contract and known to the plaintiff, might have been displaced by the defendant;

(d) when a public company has entered into a contract, and subsequently becomes amalgamated with another public company, the new company which arises out of the amalgamation;

(e) when the promoters of a public company have, before its incorporation, entered into a contract, the company: provided that the company has ratified and adopted the contract, and the contract is warranted by the terms of the incorporation.

to clause (b.)—A contracts to convey certain land to B by a particular day. A dies intestate before that day without having conveyed the land. B may compel A's heir or other representative in interest to perform the contract specifically.

A contracts to sell certain land to B for Rs. 5,000. A afterwards conveys the land for Rs. 6,000 to C, who has notice of the original contract. B may enforce specific performance of the contract as against C.

A contracts to sell land to B for Rs. 5,000. B takes possession of the land. Afterwards A sells it to C for Rs. 6,000. C makes no inquiry of B relating to his either for the deficiency, or for the loss or damage sustained by him through the default of the defendant.

Illustrations.

(a.) A contracts to sell to B a piece of land consisting of 100 beeghas. It turns out that 50 beeghas of the land belong to A, and the other 50 beeghas to a stranger, who refuses to part with them. A cannot obtain a decree against B for the specific performance of the contract; but if B is willing to pay the price agreed upon, and to take the 50 beeghas which belong to A, waiving all right to compensation either for the deficiency or for loss sustained by him through A's neglect or default, B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey those 50 beeghas to him on payment of the purchase-money.

(b.) A contracts to sell to B an estate with a house and garden for a lakh of rupees. The garden is important for the enjoyment of the house. It turns out that A is unable to convey the garden. A cannot obtain a decree against B for the specific performance of the contract; but if B is willing to pay the price agreed upon, and to take the estate and house without the garden, waiving all right to compensation either for the deficiency or for loss sustained by him through A's neglect or default, B is entitled to a decree directing A to convey the house to him on payment of the purchase-money.

16. When a part of a contract which, taken by itself, can and ought to be specifically performed, stands on a separate and independent footing from another part of the same contract which cannot or ought not to be specifically performed, the Court may direct specific performance of the former part.

17. The Court shall not direct the specific performance of a part of a contract except in cases coming under one or other of the three last preceding sections.

18. Where a person contracts to sell or let certain property, having only an imperfect title thereto, the purchaser or lessee (except as otherwise provided by this chapter) has the following rights:—

(a) if the vendor or lessor has subsequently to the sale or lease acquired any interest in the property, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to make good the contract out of such interest;

(b) where the concurrence of other persons is necessary to validate the title, and they are bound to convey at the vendor's or lessor's request, the purchaser or lessee may compel him to procure such concurrence;

(c) where the vendor professes to sell unincumbered property, but the property is mortgaged for an amount not exceeding the purchase-money, and the vendor has in fact only a right to redeem it, the purchaser may compel him to redeem the mortgage and obtain a conveyance from the mortgagee;

(d) where the vendor or lessor sues for specific performance of the contract, and the suit is dismissed on the ground of his imperfect title, the defendant has a right to a return of his deposit (if any) with interest thereon, to his costs of the suit, and to a lien for such deposit, interest and costs on the interest of the vendor or lessor in the property agreed to be sold or let.

19. Any person suing for the specific performance of a contract may also ask for compensation for its breach, either in addition to, or in substitution for, such performance.

If in any such suit the Court decides that specific performance ought not to be granted, but that there is a contract between the parties which has been broken by the defendant, and that the plaintiff is entitled to compensation for that breach, it shall award him compensation accordingly.

If in any such suit the Court decides that specific performance ought to be granted, but that it is not sufficient to satisfy the justice of the case, and that some compensation for breach of the contract should also be made to the plaintiff, it shall award him such compensation accordingly.

Compensation awarded under this section may be assessed in such manner as the Court may direct.

EXPLANATION.—The circumstance that the contract has become incapable of specific performance does not preclude the Court from exercising the jurisdiction conferred by this section.

of the second paragraph:—A contracts to sell a hundred maunds of rice to B. B brings a suit to compel A to perform the contract or to pay compensation. The Court is of opinion that A has made a valid contract and has broken it without excuse to the injury of B, but that specific performance is not the proper remedy. It shall award to B such compensation as it deems just.

of the third paragraph:—A contracts with B to sell him a house for Rs. 1,000, the price to be paid and the possession given on the 1st January 1877. A fails to perform his part of the contract, and B brings his suit for specific performance and compensation, which is decided in his favour on the 1st January 1878. The decree may, besides ordering specific performance, award to B compensation for any loss which he has sustained by A's refusal.

of the explanation:—A, a purchaser, sues B, his vendor, for specific performance of a contract for the sale of a patent. Before the hearing of the suit the patent expires. The Court may award A compensation for the non-performance of the contract, and may, if necessary, amend the plaint for that purpose.

A sues for the specific performance of a resolution passed by the directors of a public company, under which he was entitled to have a certain number of shares allotted to him, and for compensation for the non-performance of the resolution. All the shares had been allotted before the institution of the suit. The Court may, under this section, award A compensation for the non-performance.

20. A contract, otherwise proper to be specifically enforced, may be thus enforced, though a sum be named in it as the amount to be paid in case of its breach, and the party in default is willing to pay the same.

Illustration.

A contracts to grant B an underlease of property held by A under C, and that he will apply to C for a license necessary to the validity of the underlease, and that, if the license is not procured, A will pay B Rs. 10,000. A refuses to apply for the license and offers to pay B the Rs. 10,000. B is nevertheless entitled to have the contract specifically enforced if C consents to give the license.

(b.)—Contracts which cannot be specifically enforced.

21. The following contracts cannot be specifically enforced:—

- (a) a contract for the non-performance of which compensation in money is an adequate relief;
- (b) a contract which runs into such minute or numerous details, or which is so dependent on the personal qualifications or volition of the parties, or otherwise from its nature is such that the Court cannot enforce specific performance of its material terms;

- (c) a contract the terms of which the Court cannot find with reasonable certainty;
- (d) a contract which is in its nature revocable;
- (e) a contract made by trustees either in excess of their powers or in breach of their trust;
- (f) a contract made by or on behalf of a corporation or public company created for special purposes, or by the promoters of such company, which is in excess of its powers;
- (g) a contract the performance of which involves the performance of a continuous duty extending over a longer period than three years from its date;
- (h) a contract of which a material part of the subject-matter supposed by both parties to exist has, before it has been made, ceased to exist.

And save as provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, no contract to refer a controversy to arbitration shall be specifically enforced; but if any person who has made such a contract and has refused to perform it, sues in respect of any subject which he has contracted to refer, the existence of such contract shall bar the suit.

to (a).—A contracts to sell, and B contracts to buy, a lakh of rupees in the four per cent. loan of the Government of India.

A contracts to sell, and B contracts to buy, 40 chests of indigo at Rs. 1,000 per chest.

In consideration of certain property having been transferred by A to B, B contracts to open a credit in A's favour to the extent of Rs. 10,000, and to honor A's drafts to that amount.

to (b).—A contracts to render personal service to B:

A contracts to employ B on personal service:

A, an author, contracts with B, a publisher, to complete a literary work.

B cannot enforce specific performance of these contracts.

By a charter-party entered into in Calcutta between A, the owner of a ship, and B, the charterer, it is agreed that the ship shall proceed to Rangoon, and there load a cargo of rice, and thence proceed to London, freight to be paid, one-third on arrival at Rangoon, and two-thirds on delivery of the cargo in London.

A lets land to B, and B contracts to cultivate it in a particular manner for three years next after the date of the lease.

A contracts with B to execute certain works which the Court cannot superintend.

A contracts to supply B with all the goods of a certain class which B may require.

A contracts with B to take from B a lease of a certain house for a specified term at a specified rent, "if the drawing-room is handsomely decorated," even if it is held to have so much certainty that compensation can be recovered for its breach.

A contracts to marry B.

The above contracts cannot be specially enforced.

to (c).—A, the owner of a refreshment-room, contracts with B to give him accommodation there for the sale of his goods and to furnish him with the necessary appliances. A refuses to perform his contract. The case is one for compensation and not for specific performance, the amount and nature of the accommodation and appliances being undefined.

to (d).—A and B contract to become partners in a certain business, the contract not specifying the duration of the proposed partnership. This contract cannot be specifically performed, for, if it were so performed, either A or B might at once dissolve the partnership.

to (e).—A is a trustee of land with power to lease it for seven years. He enters into a contract with B to grant a lease of the land for seven years, with a covenant to renew the lease at the expiry of the term. This contract cannot be specifically enforced.

The directors of a company have power to sell the concern with the sanction of a general meeting of the shareholders. They contract to sell it without any such sanction. This contract cannot be specifically enforced.

Two trustees, A and B, empowered to sell trust property worth lakh of rupees, contract to sell it to C for Rs. 30,000. The contract is so disadvantageous as to be a breach of trust. C cannot enforce its specific performance.

The promoters of a company for working mines contract that the company, when formed, shall purchase certain mineral property. They take no proper precautions to ascertain the value of such property, and in fact agree to pay an extravagant price therefor. They also stipulate that the vendors shall give them a bonus out of the purchase-money. This contract cannot be specifically enforced.

to (f).—A company existing for the sole purpose of making and working a railway contracts for the purchase of a piece of land for the purpose of erecting a cotton-mill thereon. This contract cannot be specifically enforced.

to (g).—A contracts to let for twenty-one years to B the right to use such part of a certain railway made by A as was upon B's land, and that B should have a right of running carriages over the whole line on certain terms, and might require A to supply the necessary engine-power, and that A should during the term keep the whole railway in good repair. Specific performance of this contract must be refused to B.

to (h).—A contracts to pay an annuity to B for the lives of C and D. It turns out that at the date of the contract C, though supposed by A and B to be alive, was dead. The contract cannot be specifically performed.

(c).—Of the Discretion of the Court.

22. The jurisdiction to decree specific performance

Discretion as to decreeing specific performance. Specific performance is discretionary, and the Court is not bound to grant such relief merely because it is lawful to do so; but the discretion of the Court is not arbitrary, but sound and reasonable, guided by judicial principles and capable of correction by a Court of appeal.

The following are cases in which the Court may properly exercise a discretion not to decree specific performance:—

I. Where the circumstances under which the contract is made are such as to give the plaintiff an unfair advantage over the defendant, though there may be no fraud or misrepresentation on the plaintiff's part.

Illustrations.

(a.) A, a tenant for life of certain property, assigns his interest therein to B. C contracts to buy, and B contracts to sell, that interest. Before the contract is completed A receives a mortal injury, from the effects of which he dies the day after the contract is executed. If B and C were equally ignorant or equally aware of the fact, B is entitled to specific performance of the contract. If B knew the fact and C did not, specific performance of the contract should be refused to B.

(b.) A contracts to sell to B the interest of C in certain stock-in-trade. It is stipulated that the sale shall stand good, even though it should turn out that C's interest is worth nothing. In fact the value of C's interest depends on the result of certain partnership-accounts, on which he is heavily in debt to his partners. This indebtedness is known to A, but not to B. Specific performance of the contract should be refused to A.

interest in the land. B's possession is sufficient to affect C with notice of his interest, and he may enforce specific performance of the contract against C.

A contracts, in consideration of Rs. 1,000, to bequeath certain of his lands to B. Immediately after the contract A dies intestate, and C takes out administration to his estate. B may enforce specific performance of the contract against C.

A contracts to sell certain land to B. Before the completion of the contract A becomes a lunatic and C is appointed his committee. B may specifically enforce the contract against C.

to clause (c).—A, the tenant for life of an estate, with remainder to B, in due exercise of a power conferred by the settlement under which he is tenant for life, contracts to sell the estate to C, who has notice of the settlement. Before the sale is completed A dies. C may enforce specific performance of the contract against B.

A and B are joint tenants of land, his undivided moiety of which either may alien in his lifetime, but which, subject to that right, devolves on the survivor. A contracts to sell his moiety to C and dies. C may enforce specific performance of the contract against B.

(h.) Against whom Contracts cannot be specifically enforced.

28. Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced against a party thereto in any of the following cases:—

What parties cannot be compelled to perform.

(a) if the consideration to be received by him is so grossly inadequate, with reference to the state of things existing at the date of the contract, as to be either by itself or, coupled with other circumstances, evidence of fraud or of undue advantage taken by the plaintiff;

(b) if his assent was obtained by the misrepresentation (whether wilful or innocent), concealment, circumvention, or unfair practices, of any party to whom performance would become due under the contract, or by any promise of such party which has not been substantially fulfilled;

(c) if his assent was given under the influence of mistake of fact, misapprehension or surprise: Provided that, when the contract provides for compensation in case of mistake, compensation may be made for a mistake within the scope of such provision, and the contract may be specifically enforced in other respects if proper to be so enforced.

to clause (c).—A, one of two executors, in the erroneous belief that he had the authority of his co-executor, enters into an agreement for the sale to B of his testator's property. B cannot insist on the sale being completed.

A directs an auctioneer to sell certain lands. A afterwards revokes the auctioneer's authority as to 20 bighas of this land, but the auctioneer inadvertently sells the whole to B, who has not notice of the revocation. B cannot enforce specific performance of the agreement.

(i.)—The Effect of dismissing a Suit for Specific Performance.

29. The dismissal of a suit for specific performance of a contract or part thereof shall bar the plaintiff's right to sue for compensation for the breach of such contract or part, as the case may be.

Bar of suit for breach after dismissal.

(j.)—Awards and directions to execute Settlements.

30. The provisions of this chapter as to contracts shall mutatis mutandis apply to awards and to directions in a will or codicil to execute a particular settlement.

Application of preceding sections to awards and testamentary directions to execute settlements.

OF THE RECTIFICATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

31. When through fraud or a mutual mistake

When instrument may be rectified.

of the parties a contract or other instrument in writing does not truly express their intention, either party, or his representative in interest, may institute a suit to have the instrument rectified; and if the Court find it clearly proved that there has been fraud or mistake in framing the instrument, and ascertain the real intention of the parties in executing the same, the Court may in its discretion rectify the instrument so as to express that intention, so far as this can be done without prejudice to rights acquired by third persons in good faith and for value.

Illustrations.

(a.) A intending to sell to B his house and one of three godowns adjacent to it, executes a conveyance prepared by B, in which, through B's fraud, all three godowns are included. Of the two godowns which were fraudulently included, B gives one to C and lets the other to D for a rent, neither C nor D having any knowledge of the fraud. The conveyance may, as against B and C, be rectified so as to exclude from it the godown given to C; but it cannot be rectified so as to affect D's lease.

(b.) By a marriage-settlement, A, the father of B, the intended wife, covenants with C, the intended husband to pay to C, his executors, administrators and assigns, during A's life, an annuity of Rs. 5,000. C dies insolvent and the official assignee claims the annuity from A. The Court, on finding it clearly proved that the parties always intended that this annuity should be paid as a provision for B and her children, may rectify the settlement, and decree that the assignee has no right to any part of the annuity.

32. For the purpose of rectifying a contract in writing, the Court must be satisfied that all the parties thereto intended to make an equitable and conscientious agreement.

33. In rectifying a written instrument the Court may inquire what the instrument was intended to mean, and what were intended to be its legal consequences, and is not confined to the inquiry what the language of the instrument was intended to be.

34. A contract in writing may be first rectified and then, if the plaintiff has so prayed in his plaint and the Court thinks fit, specifically enforced.

Specific enforcement of rectified contract.

Illustration.

A contracts in writing to pay his attorney, B, a fixed sum in lieu of costs. The contract contains mistakes as to the name and rights of the client, which, if construed strictly, would exclude B from all rights under it. B is entitled, if the Court thinks fit, to have it rectified, and to an order for payment of the sum, as if at the time of its execution it had expressed the intention of the parties.

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE RESCISSION OF CONTRACTS.

35. Any person interested in a contract in writing may sue to have it rescinded, and such rescission may be adjudged by the Court in any of the following cases, namely:—

When rescission may be adjudged.

(a) where the contract is voidable or terminable by the plaintiff;

(b) where the contract is unlawful for causes not apparent on its face, and the defendant is more to blame than the plaintiff;

(c) where a decree for specific performance of a contract of sale, or of a contract to take a lease, has been made, and the purchaser or lessee makes default in payment of the purchase-money or other sums which the Court has ordered him to pay.

When the purchaser or lessee is in possession of the subject-matter, and the Court finds that such possession is wrongful, the Court may also order him to pay to the vendor or lessor the rents and profits, if any, received by him, as such possessor.

In the same case, the Court may, by order in the suit in which the decree has been made and not complied with, rescind the contract either so far as regards the party in default, or altogether, as the justice of the case may require.

Court may require party rescinding to do equity. the Court may require the party to whom such relief is granted to make any compensation to the other which justice may require.

OF THE CANCELLATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

39. Any person against whom a written instru-

If the instrument has been registered under the Indian Registration Act, the Court shall also send a copy of its decree to the officer in whose office the instrument has been so registered, and such officer shall note on the copy of the instrument contained in his books the fact of its cancellation.

(a.) A, the owner of a ship, by fraudulently representing her to be seaworthy, induces B, an underwriter, to insure her. B may obtain the cancellation of the policy.

(b.) A conveys land to B, who bequeaths it to C and dies. Thereupon D gets possession of the land, and produces a forged instrument stating that the conveyance was made to B in trust for him. C may obtain the cancellation of the forged instrument.

(c.) A, representing that the tenants on his land were all at will, sells it to B, and conveys it to him by an instrument dated the 1st January 1877. Soon after that day A fraudulently grants to C a lease of part of the lands, dated the 1st October 1874, and procures the lease to be registered under the Indian Registration Act. B may obtain the cancellation of this lease.

(d.) A agrees to sell and deliver a ship to B, to be paid for by B's acceptances of four bills of exchange for sums amounting to Rs. 30,000, to be drawn by A on B. The bills are drawn and accepted, but the ship is not delivered according to the agreement. A sues B on one of the bills. B may obtain the cancellation of all the bills.

OF DECLARATORY DECREES.

42. Any person entitled to any legal character,

Discretion of Court as to declarations of status or right. or to any right as to any property, may institute a suit against any person denying, or interested to, deny, his title to such character or right, and the Court may in its discretion make therein a declaration that he is so entitled, and the plaintiff need not in such suit ask for any further relief.

Provided that no Court shall make any such declaration where the plaintiff, being able to seek further relief than a mere declaration of title, omits to do so.

Bar to such declaration. EXPLANATION.—A trustee of property is a 'person interested to deny' a title adverse to the title of some one who is not in existence, and for whom, if in existence, he would be a trustee.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is lawfully in possession of certain land. The inhabitants of a neighbouring village claim a right of way across the land. A may sue for a declaration that they are not entitled to the right so claimed.

(b.) A bequeaths his property to B, C, and D, "to be equally divided amongst all and each of them, if living at the time of my death, then amongst their surviving children." No such children are in existence. In a suit against A's executor, the Court may declare whether B, C, and D took the property absolutely, or only for their lives, and it may also declare the interests of the children before their rights are vested.

(c.) A covenants that if he should at any time be entitled to property exceeding one lakh of rupees, he will settle it upon certain trusts. Before any such property accrues, or any persons entitled under the trusts are ascertained, he institutes a suit to obtain a declaration that the covenant is void for uncertainty. The Court may make the declaration.

(d.) A alienates to B property in which A has merely a life interest. The alienation is invalid as against C, who is entitled as reversioner. The Court may in a suit by C against A and B declare that C is so entitled.

(e.) The widow of a sonless Hindu alienates part of the property of which she is in possession as such. The person presumptively entitled to possess the property if he survive her, may, in a suit against the alienee, obtain a declaration that the alienation was made without legal necessity, and was therefore void beyond the widow's lifetime.

(f.) A Hindu widow in possession of property adopts a son to her deceased husband. The person presumptively entitled to possession of the property on her death without a son may, in a suit against the adopted son, obtain a declaration that the adoption was invalid.

(g.) A is in possession of certain property. B, alleging that he is the owner of the property, requires A to deliver it to him. A may obtain a declaration of his right to hold the property.

(h.) A bequeaths property to B for his life, with remainder to B's wife and her children, if any, by B, but if B die without any wife or children, to C. B has a putative wife, D, and children, but C denies that B and D were ever lawfully married. D and her children may, in B's lifetime, institute a suit against C and obtain therein a declaration that they are truly the wife and children of B.

43. A declaration made under this chapter is

Effect of declaration. binding only on the parties to the suit, persons claiming through them respectively, and, where any of the parties are trustees, on the persons for whom, if in existence at the date of the declaration, such parties would be trustees.

Illustration.

A, a Hindu, in a suit to which B, his alleged wife, and her mother are defendants, seeks a declaration that his marriage was duly solemnized and an order for the restitution of his conjugal rights. The Court makes the declaration and order. C, claiming that B is his wife, then sues A for the recovery of B. The declaration made in the former suit is not binding upon C.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE ENFORCEMENT OF PUBLIC DUTIES.

45. Any of the High Courts of Judicature at Power to order public servants and others to do certain specific acts.

Port William, Madras, and Bombay may make an order requiring any specific act to be done or forborne within the local limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction by any person holding a public office, whether of a permanent or a temporary nature, or by any corporation or inferior Court of Judicature: provided—

(a) that an application for such order be made by some person whose property, franchise, or personal right, would be injured by the forbearing or doing (as the case may be) of the said specific act;

(b) that such doing or forbearing is, under any law for the time being in force, clearly incumbent on such person or Court in his or its public character, or on such corporation in its corporate character;

(c) that, in the opinion of the High Court, such doing or forbearing is consonant to right and justice;

(d) that the applicant has no other specific and adequate legal remedy; and

(e) that the remedy given by the order applied for will be complete.

Exemptions from such power.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any High Court—

(f) to make any order binding on the Secretary of State for India in Council, on the Governor-General in Council, on the Governor of Madras in Council, on the Governor of Bombay in Council, or on the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal;

(g) to make any order on any other servant of the Crown, as such, merely to enforce the satisfaction of a claim upon the Crown; or

(h) to make any order which is otherwise expressly excluded by any law for the time being in force.

46. Every application under section 45

Application how made. must be founded on an affidavit of the person injured, stating his right in the matter in question, his demand of justice and the denial thereof; and the Procedure thereon.

High Court may, in its discretion, make the order applied for absolute in the first instance, or refuse it or grant a rule to show cause why the order applied for should not be made.

If, in the latter case, the person, court, or corporation complained of shows no sufficient cause, the High Court may first make an order in the alternative, either to do or forbear the act mentioned in the order, or to signify some reason to the contrary, and make an answer thereto by such day as the High Court fixes in this behalf.

47. If the person, court, or corporation to whom or to which, such order is directed makes no answer, or makes an insufficient or a false answer, the High Court may then issue a peremptory order to do or forbear the act absolutely.

under this chapter shall be in the discretion of the High Court.

thereof shall hereafter issue any writ of mandamus.

51. Each of the said High Courts shall, as soon as conveniently may be, frame rules to regulate the procedure under this chapter; and until such rules are framed, the practice of such Court as to applications for and grants of writs of mandamus shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to applications and orders under this chapter.

OF PREVENTIVE RELIEF.

CHAPTER IX.

tion of the Court by injunction, temporary or perpetual.

53. Temporary injunctions are such as are to continue until a specified time, or until the further order of the Court. They may be granted at any period of a suit, and are regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.

A perpetual injunction can only be granted by the decree made at the hearing and upon the merits of the suit: the defendant is thereby perpetually enjoined from the assertion of a right, or from the commission of an act, which would be contrary to the rights of the plaintiff.

CHAPTER X.

OF PERPETUAL INJUNCTIONS.

54. Subject to the other provisions contained in or referred to by this chapter, a perpetual injunction may be granted to prevent the breach of an obligation existing in favour of the applicant, whether expressly or by implication.

When such obligation arises from contract, the Court shall be guided by the rules and provisions contained in chapter II of this Act.

When the defendant invades or threatens to invade the plaintiff's right to, or enjoyment of, property, the Court may grant a perpetual injunction in the following cases (namely)—

(a) where the defendant is trustee of the property for the plaintiff;

(b) where there exists no standard for ascertaining the actual damage caused or likely to be caused by the invasion;

(c) where the invasion is such that pecuniary compensation would not afford adequate relief;

(d) where it is probable that pecuniary compensation cannot be got for the invasion;

(e) where the injunction is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of judicial proceedings.

EXPLANATION.—For the purpose of this section a trademark is property.

Mandatory injunctions. gation, it is necessary to compel the performance of certain acts which the Court is capable of enforcing, the Court may in its discretion grant an injunction to prevent the breach complained of, and also to compel performance of the requisite acts.

Illustrations.

(a). A, by new buildings, obstructs lights to the access and use of which B has acquired a right under the Indian Limitation Act, Part IV. B may obtain an injunction, not only to restrain A from going on with the buildings, but also to pull down so much of them as obstructs B's lights.

(b). A builds a house with eaves projecting over B's land. B may sue for an injunction to pull down so much of the eaves as so project.

(c). In the case put as illustration (i) to section 54, the Court may also order all written communications made by B, as patient, to A, as medical adviser, to be destroyed.

(d). In the case put as illustration (y) to section 54, the Court may also order A's letters to be destroyed.

(e). A threatens to publish statements concerning B which would be punishable under Chapter XXI of the Indian Penal Code. The Court may grant an injunction to restrain the publication, even though it may be shown not to be injurious to B's property.

(f). A, being B's medical adviser, threatens to publish B's written communications with him, showing that B has led an immoral life. B may obtain an injunction to restrain the publication.

(g). In the cases put as illustrations (v) and (w) to section 54, and as illustrations (e) and (f) to this section, the Court may also order the copies produced by piracy, and the trademarks, statements and communications therein respectively mentioned, to be given up or destroyed.

56. An injunction cannot be granted—

(a) to stay a judicial proceeding pending at the institution of the suit in which the injunction is sought, unless such restraint is necessary to prevent a multiplicity of proceedings;

(b) to stay proceedings in a Court not subordinate to that from which the injunction is sought;

(c) to restrain persons from applying to any legislative body;

(d) to interfere with the public duties of any department of the Government of India or the Local Government, or with the sovereign acts of a Foreign Government;

(e) to stay proceedings in any criminal matter;

(f) to prevent the breach of a contract the performance of which would not be specifically enforced;

(g) to prevent, on the ground of nuisance, an act of which it is not reasonably clear that it will be a nuisance;

(h) to prevent a continuing breach in which the applicant has acquiesced;

(i) when equally efficacious relief can certainly be obtained by any other usual mode of proceeding, except in case of breach of trust;

(j) when the conduct of the applicant or his agents has been such as to disentitle him to the assistance of the Court;

(k) where the applicant has no personal interest in the matter.

Illustrations.

(a). A seeks an injunction to restrain his partner, B, from receiving the partnership-debts and effects. It appears as "patent plumbago crucibles," though, in fact, they have never been patented. B pirates the designation. A cannot obtain an injunction to restrain the piracy.

(c). A sells an article called "Mexican Balm," stating that it is compounded of divers rare essences, and has sovereign medicinal qualities. B commences to sell a similar article to which he gives a name and description such as to lead people into the belief that they are buying A's Mexican Balm. A sues B for an injunction to restrain the sale. B shows that A's Mexican Balm consists of nothing but scented hog's lard. A's use of his description is not an honest one, and he cannot obtain an injunction.

57. Notwithstanding section 56, clause (f),

Injunctions to perform where a contract comprises a contract negative agreement. prises an affirmative agreement to do a certain act, coupled with a negative agreement, express or implied, not to do a certain act, the circumstance that the Court is unable to compel specific performance of the affirmative agreement, shall not preclude it from granting an injunction to perform the negative agreement; provided that the applicant has not failed to perform the contract so far as it is binding on him.

Illustrations.

(a). A contracts to sell to B for Rs. 1,000 the good-will of a certain business unconnected with business-premises, and further agrees not to carry on that business in Calcutta. B pays A the Rs. 1,000, but A carries on the business in Calcutta. The Court cannot compel A to send his customers to B, but B may obtain an injunction restraining A from carrying on the business in Calcutta.

(b). A contracts to sell to B the good-will of a business. A then sets up a similar business close by B's shop, and solicits his old customers to deal with him. This is contrary to his implied contract, and B may obtain an injunction to restrain A from soliciting the customers, and from doing any act whereby their good-will may be withdrawn from B.

(c). A contracts with B to sing for twelve months at B's theatre and not to sing in public elsewhere. B cannot obtain specific performance of the contract to sing, but he is entitled to an injunction restraining A from singing at any other place of public entertainment.

(d). B contracts with A that he will serve him faithfully for twelve months as a clerk. A is not entitled to a decree for specific performance of this contract. But he is entitled to an injunction restraining B from serving a rival-house as clerk.

(e). A contracts with B that, in consideration of Rs. 1,000 to be paid to him by B on a day fixed, he will not set up a certain business within a specified distance. B fails to pay the money. A cannot be restrained from carrying on the business within the specified distance.
